Giant TREE peonies

Grow to 5—6 ft.

Flowering June

Giant Tree Peonies differ from the ordinary Peonies in their sturdy, woody trunks and gigantic flowers. They develop into a dense, bushy tree, ultimately attaining a height of 5—6 feet; loaded with a profusion of huge blooms. Tree Peonies are now very rare and seldom seen in gardens, since the fine collections that existed a century ago have been destroyed and scattered. But there is no finer species than the Tree Peony, which surpasses the most beautiful herbaceous variety in size of flower and luxurious color. Once they were worshipped by Chinese gardeners and their cultivation was limited to the wealthy and princely members of the Empire. It is the Tree Peony that was symbolic of the famous Chinese pottery during the Handynasty. Introduced in Europa about 1787 it soon became popular in England, France and Holland, but later these fine collections practically disappeared. Stassen is proud to make available again these historic Tree Peonies (see illustration on the front cover):

Cultivation: They should be planted in good fertile soil, in a sunny location. The young shoots should be protected against cold winds by a slight covering during early spring. To attain strong, bushy trees, that flower abundantly leave them undisturbed for many years.

Fancy-Leaved CALADIUMS

Magnificent tropical plants with luxuriously colored foliage, beautiful all the time! From the moment the bulbs start growing until stopped by frost they remain fresh and showy. Caladiums grow anywhere—in shade, semi-shade, or even in sun! Plant a complete border, or plant between shrubs and other plants to have a colorful garden all summer and fall. Caladiums require no special soil or fertilizers—are free from insect pests and don't require any spraying. Plant also some in pots for porches, terraces and window boxes.

Being tropical plants, start growing Caladiums in warm temperature and only when the ground has warmed up. We will ship Caladium bulbs in April to the Southern states and not before May to the Northern states, unless they are to be used for indoor planting.

Large-flowered GLADIOLUS

Gladiolus are undoubtedly the most outstanding of all summer-flowering bulbs. Their long spikes of gorgeous blooms supply valuable and long-lasting cutflowers. Gladiolus are among the easiest of bulbs to grow! Plant bulbs at weekly intervals from early spring until July for a succession of blooms all summer long. The following varieties are outstanding in size of flower, color and also in well-formed flower spike.

HAEMANTHUS MULTIFLORUS

The Bloodflower

A rare bulbous plant from tropical Africa, where it grows in somewhat shady places of the periodical dry regions. The bulb produces broad green leaves which later die down and then appears the slender flower-stalk with a large globular umbel of bright red flowers. Interesting plant for the greenhouse and indoor. In the South they do well when planted in sunny and sheltered location. Start growing early in the greenhouse or in the heated room in a mixture of fibrous loam and some coarse sand; water gently until leaves appear and let these turn yellow by decreasing watering in late summer. Afterwards the plant flowers very easily. Plants once established in pots should be left undisturbed for several years until pots are absolutely too small.

Tropical CALLA LILIES

(ZANTEDESCHIA)

These tropical Lilies produce an abundance of dark green foliage, giving the plant an ornamental appearance at all times. Plant after danger of frost has passed. Delight in a sunny location. Giantflowered AMARYLLIS

No flower is so easy to grow in pots, requires so little care yet is so rewarding in beauty. No wonder, that Amaryllis is rapidly becoming America's most favorite indoor-plant. Bulbs potted from January onwards will flower freely indoors, sometimes within a month after planting. Essential for a successful blooming is fertile soil mixture, preferably of good garden loam, coarse sand and some old manure, gentle watering before growth starts and plenty watering when flowers are opening. Afterwards keep the bulbs gradually dryer until leaves have turned yellow and place them in a heated room to promote the development of the flower-buds inside the bulb. Don't damage the fleshy roots which contain much preserved food for flowering. Our bulbs are from a selected strain all with perfectly formed flowers, often 3—4 blooms to a stem.
